CHERRY PICKERS BUSY

(Courier photo)

Cherry picking is complete in some Okanagan areas, while in others it is still under way. Here a picker in a Glenmore orchard gets down to work on cherries which survived the recent splitting plague.

Gun Girl Shot

POST FALLS, Idaho (AP)—Lillian Jo Ramus, the young woman who charged out of a motel room spraying bullets from a gold-plated M1 carbine at policemen and FBI agents, lay seriously wounded today but was responding to treatment.

One FBI agent was wounded in the shoot-out just before midnight Saturday before the 25-year-old woman fell with bullet wounds in the head and left hip. After emergency surgery at a hospital in Spokane, Wash., 20 miles away, she was taken off the critical list, and doctors said she will recover.

The sawed-off M1 carbine had been fitted with a pistol handle so it could be used as a handgun.

The officers fired with pistols, rifles and a shot gun. Miss Ramus fell to the ground, screaming, and was quickly disarmed.

Police found a loaded, snub-nosed, .38-calibre revolver in her clothing, and a .22-calibre rifle and a .44 magnum carbine inside the room, along with ammunition for all the weapons and a fountain-pen-size tear gas gun.

Authorities had been looking for Miss Ramus since last Sept. 13, when she and Johan M. Bosley, 29, of Spokane, both held for forgery charges, used smuggled-in hacksaw blades to saw through the bars on a cell window in the Spokane city jail.

They jumped from their third-floor cell window to the second floor, then two storeys to the ground. However, Miss Bosley was seriously injured in the last jump and was left behind.

Miss Ramus and three other persons were accused of counterfeiting $40,000 worth of $20 bills, and printing $5,000 worth of fake unemployment, welfare and railway pay cheques. She also is charged with armed robbery in the $1,325 holdup of a market in a Seattle suburb.

Miss Cuba Nabs The Spotlight

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Beautyies from 55 countries appeared at opening ceremonies of the 15th annual Miss Universe pageant Sunday, and Miss Cuba stole the show.

An audience sprinkled with Cubans in this large exile colony applauded for five minutes when Lesbia Murrieta, at five-foot-two shortest of them all, was introduced.

Miss Cuba, who lives in Miami and represents the exile colony, unfurled a three-foot Cuban banner.

"I hope our land is free when the pageant is held next year," she said.

HYDROPLANE HAPPENINGS

There will be parking spaces for some 3,100 cars on the west side of the Okanagan Lake bridge during the Cup races. Ted Derickson of Westbank says the parking spaces will be prepared on the flat land above the former Rotary beach, and on the beach itself.

An estimated 12 boats are expected for the races, according to officials of the Kelowna Boat Racing Association. The boats range in size from 28 to 33 feet and will reach speeds in the 175 m.p.h. range. Drivers will compete for $25,000 in prize and bonus money.

Action on Okanagan Lake will begin at 11 a.m. each day from Wednesday through Saturday and continue until 4 p.m. as the thunderboats aim for high qualifying times on the 2.5 mile course. Although there will be many "free" vantage points on both sides of the lake admission will be charged for both the Aquatic bleachers and the pit areas on all five days of qualifications and racing. The qualifying runs are for only those boats which have not completed three laps at an average speed of 100 m.p.h.

Boats which have qualified at 100 m.p.h. on three laps at other races this year will spend their time from Wednesday to Saturday testing and tuning for Sunday's final. All boats will shoot for daily $250 prize money for the fastest time of the day. Daily prize money has been put up by Calona Wines, Okanagan Investments, Lucky Lager Breweries and Rothman's Tobacco.

The race is fully accredited by the American Power Boat Association, the governing body of unlimited racing, which means that points won here will apply toward the U.S. national championship. The Union of International Motorboating, the world racing body, also has sanctioned the event. Any world unlimited record set or broken here will be recognized.

There will be plenty of other excitement for sports fans attending Western Canada's first unlimited races. A gayway-amusement park complex will operate in an area near the pits. The popular Good Time Singers will appear in the Aquatic grandstand night show Friday and Saturday. Tickets for the night show and bleacher admission to the boat practice runs and Sunday races are now on sale at the Mill St. office.

Officials And Police Prepare For Hydroplane Race Week

Kelowna is prepared for just about anything that might conceivably happen during the unlimited hydroplane race.

Traffic, security, accidents on land or on water, policing—all have been organized to take care of any eventuality.

Safety and security precautions will involve police, doctors, firemen, first aid men, SCUBA divers, members of the Kelowna and District Search and Rescue crew, yacht club and power squadron members and many civilian volunteers and paid night watchmen.

Everything from helicopters to tear gas is being brought into the city in case of trouble. "We will play it by ear," says Sgt. Russell Bakewell, who organized the duties of the 60 policemen and auxiliaries.

"With 100,000 people expected at the event, we must be prepared to handle anything," Staff Sgt. George Phillips said today. "I do not expect any trouble."

REINFORCEMENTS
The Kelowna RCMP detachment of 21 men will be augmented by 24 RCMP officers from the surrounding areas and 15 auxiliary policemen.

Policemen will come from Revelstoke, Vernon, Lumby,

Accident Toll At 71 Dead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The accidental death toll rose to at least 71 across Canada during the weekend, 53 of them in traffic mishaps.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday local times also showed 16 drownings and two persons killed when struck by trains.

Quebec led the provinces with 26 traffic fatalities and six drownings.

Ontario had 10 road deaths, five drownings and one man killed when struck by a train.

New Brunswick reported five killed on the roads, Nova Scotia had two traffic deaths and Newfoundland had two drownings. Prince Edward Island was fatality-free.

Alberta had three highway deaths, one drowning and one man killed by a train. Saskatchewan reported three traffic fatalities and one drowning.

Three persons died on British Columbia roads and Manitoba had one traffic death and one drowning.

The survey does not include industrial or natural deaths, slayings or suicides.

Negro Protest Broken Up

GRENADA, Miss. (AP)—Steel-helmeted highway patrolmen, wielding billy clubs and gun butts, drove off some 300 Negroes demonstrating outside the Grenada county jail Sunday as sheriff's deputies scattered 100 jeering whites.

But civil rights leaders planned new demonstrations today—a swim-in and a read-in—in their test of public accommodations in this town of 7,914, halfway between Jackson, the Mississippi capital, and Memphis, Tenn.

The trials of some of the 43 civil rights workers jailed for staging a sitdown demonstration on a Grenada street come up in city court. Many of the Negroes dispersed Sunday from the jail area had come on a sympathy march for the 43.

Also scheduled today was a preliminary hearing for two white men arrested after shots struck near a federal official and two others as they were about to go into a Negro church late Saturday night.

A column of patrolmen, armed with shotguns, carbines and tear gas grenades, marched into one group of about 200 Negroes standing near the jail at dusk Sunday. They were ordered to disperse the crowd after about 50 Negroes first refused to move from the jail house lawn, then shifted to a nearby spot where 159 Negroes were gathered.

You're Alone Viet Cong Told

TOKYO (AP)—China has told Vietnamese "revolutionary forces" to rely on their own strength in their fight against the United States in Viet Nam. Peking appeared to be saying it will not send volunteers.

The official newspaper People's Daily in an article broadcast by the New China news agency said:

"The people should and can only rely on themselves to make revolution and wage people's war in their own country, since these are their own affairs. No outside aid can replace their struggle. Whatever its amount, it is only auxiliary."

"To make and win revolution, the people must unswervingly rely on themselves and be prepared to carry on the struggle by themselves should all material aid from outside be cut off."

City and district patrols will be increased as well as the office staff at the police station. Vernon has been asked to stand by should the Kelowna police force overflow.

Two men will join the RCMP detachment here from the GIS (General Investigation Section) formerly known as the CIB (Criminal Investigation Branch). Magistrate D. M. White today asked citizens to co-operate with the authorities to curtail accidents. He said the courts will have no sympathy for persons who are careless.

No Progress Seen In U.S. Air Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz said today "no progress" was made at this morning's negotiations aimed at ending a machinists union strike against five major U.S. airlines.

Wirtz spoke to reporters when the negotiations recessed for lunch.

Vandal 'Army' Riots In Calgary

Bad Day In Air For U.S. Planes

SAIGON (CP)—The Viet Cong shot down three U.S. helicopters in South Viet Nam, killing four U.S. and nine South Vietnamese soldiers, while two more U.S. jets were lost in the air war against the Communist north, an American spokesman announced today.

A navy fighter-bomber became the 28th plane lost in the 17-month air war against North Viet Nam early today. The bombing continued with an attack on another oil storage depot 130 miles west-northwest of Hanoi near the old French base of Dien Bien Phu. The pilots reported two buildings damaged.

U.S. military men declined to speculate whether the 2,000-man enemy force had taken refuge in Cambodia. The guerrillas offered only light resistance Sunday after the failure of their ambush of a U.S. armored column Saturday.

Reds Located In Thick Forest

The 40 personnel carriers and eight tanks went out on reconnaissance south of An Loc, 45 miles northwest of Saigon, after intelligence located the 272nd Viet Cong Regiment in the thick forests.

The Communists took the bait and hit the column from both sides as it rumbled along a dirt road. The Americans struck back swiftly.

U.S. officials in Washington offered a possible explanation for the relative inactivity of the Communists. Sources said despite a maximum effort, the North Vietnamese fell short of their planned supply buildup in the south before the rainy season.

They saw this in large measure as the result of the intensified air attacks since the start of the year against communications lines leading south.

'New People' Should Be Hired To End Troubles Plaguing CBC

OTTAWA (CP)—"Let's have some new people," Reeves Haggan, who resigned last week as CBC general supervisor of public affairs, said Sunday night. He accused CBC president J. Alphonse Ouimet and his senior executives of being hostile to the program department, of lacking understanding of how programs are made, and of knowing nothing about the communication of ideas.

In a televised interview on CJOH, Ottawa, Mr. Haggan expressed the hope that the new broadcasting legislation announced last week in a government white paper will be passed quickly by Parliament and that the CBC management will be reviewed.

"They (CBC) don't have persons experienced in the communication of ideas at the top," he told interviewer Douglas Fisher, former New Democratic MP for Port Arthur.

Mr. Haggan resigned to protest the firing of Douglas Letterman, executive producer of the controversial program This Hour Has Seven Days.

Mr. Haggan expressed the hope that a new CBC management eventually would rehire Mr. Letterman and Patrick Watson, who was fired earlier as the program's co-host.

Convict Leaped Out Of Window

MONTREAL (CP)—Jean-Paul Charbonneau, a 31-year-old prisoner of St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, escaped Queen Mary Veterans' Hospital Sunday night by leaping out a second-storey window.

Provincial Police said the prisoner, serving 10 years for armed robbery, was under guard by private protection agency, the Phillips Investigation Bureau Ltd.

The officer-in-charge at provincial police headquarters admitted Charbonneau's being guarded by private agency personnel "was unusual."

McNAUGHTON, PUBLIC FIGURE

An Old Soldier Fades Away

As wartime commander overseas, he fought efforts to split up the Canadian forces and insisted on keeping them intact as a fighting force.

He was relieved of his command—the official reason given was illness—then returned home to an unusual period of relative calm. Nine months later he emerged again into the public eye to fight a losing battle to save the voluntary character of the enlistment program.

REVERSED TREND

Col. J. L. Ralston, the defence minister, was forced to resign Nov. 1, 1944, over his advocacy of conscription and Gen. McNaughton replaced him. Gen. McNaughton campaigned strenuously to fill up the casualty-depleted ranks of the forces with volunteers but the government adopted limited conscription in a sudden reversal of policy, and shortly afterwards sent the home-service conscripts overseas.

Gen. McNaughton twice suffered defeats at the polls in a by-election Feb. 5, 1945, and at a general election Jun 11, 1945. He remained in the cabinet for another two months before he resigned.

He plunged into new tasks—appointment to the Canada-U.S. joint defence board in 1945 and the following year to the Canadian and United Nations atomic energy commissions. He became permanent Canadian delegate to the UN in 1948 and shifted to the International Joint Commission in 1950.

Gen. McNaughton had won renown as a soldier during the First World War when he was credited with inventing the box

Police Battle Mob Of 700 Prior To Stampede Opening

CALGARY (CP)—Police used dogs and water trucks early today to disperse a mob of more than 700 persons who tore down signs and mailboxes and set fire to garbage cans in the downtown area.

Deputy Police Chief Duke Kent said the crowd was "in high spirits" after a dance winding up pre-stampede weekend activities and "got a little excited and unruly."

The crowd, mostly youths, set off fire alarms, ripped down store displays and damaged cars.

Thirteen were charged with disorderly conduct and two with defacing highway signs. They were to appear in court today. Several persons, including a police officer, were bitten by police dogs.

Damage was not heavy and the crowd was effectively controlled, the deputy chief said. About 15 persons were arrested.

As the crowd marched past the city police station, police barricades were torn down, fencing ripped up and debris thrown into the street. Some carried a sign torn from a store a block away.

Police, who had strengthened patrols in case of repetition of high temperature was 70.

India's PM Wins Support Of Tito

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (Reuters)—Prime Minister Jawahar Lal Nehru of India appeared to have won Yugoslav backing for efforts by the non-aligned nations to bring peace to Viet Nam.

Mrs. Gandhi and President Tito today moved into the second and final day of their discussions on the Adriatic island of Brion.

In a dinner speech Sunday night, Tito called on all "peace-loving" countries to make joint efforts to prevent catastrophe arising from the Viet Nam war.

Mrs. Gandhi's proposal to have the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina reconvened is reported to have already won some support from President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic but has been rejected by China.

The Indian leader, who goes on to Moscow Tuesday for a five-day official visit, flew into Yugoslavia Sunday from two days of talks in Cairo.

Another major topic of her discussion with Tito was believed to be the planned three-party summit meeting in New Delhi, India, in October among herself, Tito and Nasser.

Speaking at the dinner he gave in honor of Mrs. Gandhi, Tito said his country and other progressive nations cannot remain indifferent toward a dangerous arms race, the policy of force and interference, and growing differences in economic development of individual countries.

"The cold war has turned into armed interventions and the use of brute force in some parts of the world," he said. "An example... is the aggression on Viet Nam which threatens to turn into a new blaze of widespread war."

"Such a situation obliges still more, not only the non-aligned, but all peace-loving countries and peoples of the world to join their efforts to prevent a new catastrophe of humanity."

Quartet Of Red Chinese Take Control After Purge

TOKYO (AP)—Four men appeared to have moved into key positions in China's Communist hierarchy as a result of the sweeping purge in the country's leadership.

The four were spotlighted during the weekend when most of China's top leaders appeared at a reception for delegates to an Asian-African writers' conference in Peking.

The list of the leaders and their titles was reported in detail by Peking radio, the official New China news agency and Peking newspapers. Foreign observers in Tokyo believe this may have been Communist party chief Mao Tse-tung's way of announcing the team with which he intends to push forward his "cultural revolution."

The four men given new prominence were:

—Marshal Yeh Chien-ying, raised to the central committee's important 12-man secretariat. He is considered a possible successor to Gen. Lo Jui-ching as army chief of the general staff.

—Gen. Po-ta, Mao's former secretary and editor in chief of the party's theoretical journal "Red Flag." He was identified as "leader of the group in charge of the cultural revolution under the party's central committee."

—Vice-Premier Tao Chu, who replaces Vice-Premier Lu Tingxi as party propaganda chief.

—Kang Shen, party theoretician and alternate member of the politburo who is considered a possible successor to Peking's disgraced Mayor Peng Chen.

The Chips Are Down For P.E.I. Govt., Opposition

SOURIS, P.E.I. (CP) — Most Prince Edward Islanders were tending their farms, pulling in fishing nets, catering to the increasing flow of summer tourists or otherwise occupied at various trades and professions today. But the enfranchised residents of rural Kings 1st were busy in a crucial political interlude.

Some 2,411 voters were eligible to go to the polls which opened at 9 a.m. ADT in a deferred election that could unlock a two-party stalemate and decided the fate of Premier Walter R. Shaw's Progressive Conservative government. The polls close at 6 p.m.

The Shaw forces and the Liberals under Alex B. Campbell ended the May 30 election with 15 legislative seats apiece. Each party needs a sweep of both the councillor and assemblyman seats in Kings 1st to gain majority control of the 32 seat house. Both seats were previously held by Liberals.

A split in the farming and fishing constituency, where the May 26th death of Liberal William A. Acorn brought about the deferred balloting, could result in a coalition or a new provincial election.

Mr. Shaw said in an interview Sunday night he was confident of victory. "Although I never make predictions on the eve of an election," he said the Liberals had conducted "a dirty campaign," the likes of which "I have never seen in my political career."

The premier charged that Liberal followers blared car horns in an attempt to drown out the speakers at "a large and enthusiastic" Conservative rally here Saturday night. Other acts of "rowdiness and vandalism" included tearing and defacing posters, he said.

CHARGES NEGLIGENCE

Mr. Campbell, 33-year-old Summerside lawyer, was not available for comment Sunday night. However, throughout the bitter campaign, the freshman Liberal leader has accused the Conservative government of negligence since it first gained office in 1959 and has labelled Mr. Shaw's platform "the sorry manifesto."

The Conservatives have pledged new industries and increased financial assistance for Kings 1st in what Mr. Shaw calls "a program of fulfilment rather than promises."

The government has already implemented promised increases in old age pensions, forcing the Liberals to amend a similar promise to a guarantee of continuing the increases if they are elected to power.

Mr. Campbell said early in the campaign he was leaving most of the party's political persuasion to councillor candidate Daniel J. MacDonald, a member of the last house and Bruce L. Stewart, a former Souris mayor, who is running for assemblyman.

Conservative candidate for councillor is farmer Peter MacAulay, and seeking the assemblyman seat is Keith MacKenzie, a car dealer here who was named public works and highways minister shortly after the May 30 election.

The Conservative government had a 17-15 majority at dissolution and won 19 seats to 11 for the Liberals in the 1962 election. Two seats were won by Liberals in 1965 a byelection and two were added by redistribution.

GEN. McNAUGHTON DIES . . .

barrage although he attributed this artillery-firing system to evolution not invention.

A brigadier at 31, he commanded Canada's heavy artillery at the end of the war and by 1929 was chief of the general staff.

An engineering graduate of McGill University, he became a chairman of the National Research Council in 1933, a post he held until he returned to the army to command the Canadian forces at the outbreak of the Second World War.

"When the history of these events is written, what I did will be justified in the mind of every right-thinking Canadian."

At the time of the conscription crisis, he is said to have told then Prime Minister Mackenzie King that the sending of large forces to Italy so soon before the planned invasion of Normandy contributed to the shortage of reinforcements.

Following his 1950 appointment to the IJC, he spent years in vigilant negotiation with the Americans over common boundary waters. He presided over the settlement of the years-old problem of development of the Columbia River which rises in Canada and flows through the northwestern U.S. to empty into the sea at Portland, Ore.

He uncompromisingly insisted that great benefits be returned to Canada where much of the water storage was to be built and some of the power developed. But he was largely relegated to an advisory capacity during final negotiations conducted at cabinet level.

Although the treaty was signed in 1961 after nearly 20 years of intermittent discussion of the Columbia problem it was not ratified until 1964.

It underwent some revision in 1964 before Canadian ratification, aimed at ensuring Canadian rights to divert Columbia water.

MADE CRITICISM

By then Gen. McNaughton had become a chief critic. He wanted a different system of storage controls.

In the initial negotiations, he was credited with winning U.S. acceptance of the principle that Canada would receive half the power and flood-control benefits created in the U.S. by Canadian water control.

He had retired from the IJC in 1962 and was an active participant in the long battle in and out of Parliament that led to the treaty revision and, ultimately, its ratification contrary to his advice.

Throughout his life, Gen. McNaughton was a man of remarkable vigor and directness of speech. He suffered notable and public reverses without loss of integrity or faith.

After his last great battle over the Columbia treaty, he stepped off the public stage. He married Mabel Clara Stuart of Montreal in 1914. She survives as do two daughters, Mrs. T. B. McDougall, Ottawa, and Leslie Anita, and two of their three sons, Andrew Robert Leslie McNaughton of Montreal, and Col. Edward M. D. McNaughton. A third son, Sgt. Ldr. Ian McNaughton, was killed in a 1942 bombing raid.

Ontario Students Arrive Soon

Twenty-four Pentikton students and their parents will play host to 24 youngsters from Scarborough, Ont., July 13 to July 20.

The visiting students will arrive 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 13, at Pentikton Secondary School by charter bus. A reception to welcome the visitors will be held at this time.

The visiting students, ranging in age from 15 to 18, will be staying with local residents while in this area and a full line of activities have been planned for their visit.

Diverging Water To Southwest Far-Out Dream, Says Editor

PENTIKTON (CP) — A plan by politicians and propagandists to divert northern rivers to the water-starved southern United States has been labelled a dream by a U.S. newspaper executive.

Wilfred Woods, publisher and editor of the Wenatchee, Wash., Daily World, told the Western Canada Reclamation Association's annual meeting Friday that the northern states would side with Canada against the people propagating this dream.

"We are going to have to bring these dreamers down to more specific things," he said. "We are your allies against these dreamers of the Northwest American Water and Power Alliance and the grand plan for the Great Lakes."

The NAWAPA project would divert northern rivers through British Columbia's Rocky Mountain Trench to the dry U.S. Southwest. The Great Lakes scheme would see rivers diverted south from Hudson Bay into the Great Lakes.

Mr. Woods said a great many people in his area feel they will have to take a stand against this "easy solution" for southern water problems.

Prime target of the NAWAPA is the Columbia River, which has its source in B.C. and flows into the Pacific on the Washington-Oregon border.

According to experts, said Mr. Woods, the Columbia does not provide enough water to supply the southern states as well as the Pacific Northwest.

Provincial Resources Minister

Ray Williston said B.C. water resources are being assessed now and experts are finding that only half of the province's potential can be held in reserve.

Mr. Williston told the meeting there is ample water on the coast but some interior areas in B.C. are feeling the pinch.

The Okanagan needs water for its lush orchards, he said. Mr. Williston said most accessible sources in the province have been tapped and future source exploitation will be more expensive.

British Columbia, he said, is not prepared to discuss water export at this time—she doesn't know her own future needs.

Federal Mines Minister Pepin said the problem of water resources should be left to the federal government—not to the individual provinces.

Mr. Leduc said: "The province shouldn't try to deny the federal government jurisdiction in its own areas."

Ottawa is partly responsible for irrigation and agriculture as they relate to water, he said, and "there is an inevitable overlapping."

"I wish this could be played two ways. I have no intention of denying the jurisdiction of the provinces."

"The only way out of this is by compromise . . . both levels of government have to work together."

SUEZ IS STRATEGIC

The isthmus of Suez is the narrowest strip of land between Asia and Africa.

Canadian, Soviet Farmers 'Can Learn,' Polyansky

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian and Soviet farmers and agricultural scientists have a lot to learn from each other, Dmitri Polyansky feels after a first-hand look at Canadian farm techniques.

The Soviet deputy premier, back in Ottawa after 11 days on the road and in the air that gave him a look at a big cross-section of Canada, said in an interview that he had read and heard much about Canada before the visit.

"But to hear is one thing, to see is another," he said through his interpreter during the plane ride from Calgary to Ottawa Saturday night.

Mr. Polyansky leaves for Russia Tuesday after a final meeting here today with External Affairs Minister Martin.

"This was a business trip. It has been a successful one. I'll tell you straight, I'm very satisfied with this trip to Canada," he declared on the plane.

Mr. Polyansky, 49, considered a likely successor to Premier Alexei Kosygin, showed the stamina of a youngster during the tight schedule of the tour that covered the provinces from Quebec to the west coast.

His ebullient sense of humor never disappeared, despite wilting hot weather in Quebec, Ontario and the Prairies. The only times he showed the least trace of impatience were when protocol seemed to call for speech-making that might delay his search for more information about Canadian industry and agriculture.

But at the various functions where brief speeches were in order, he proved himself a witty talker. Excellent translators he brought with him from Moscow made the language barrier evaporate.

An agricultural institute graduate, Mr. Polyansky was at home on the farms and with the agricultural researchers he met. He clambered over farm machines, often explaining some function to a colleague.

At the research station in Lethbridge, Alta., he drove two tractors pulling different types of harrows.

"That wasn't just for entertainment," he said in the interview. One of his prime reasons for the trip was to study techniques to prevent wind erosion in the wheat belt drylands, a problem experienced in the Ukraine.

The harrows being demonstrated were designed to leave chopped straw on the surface of the soil to protect it against wind erosion.

In talks with agricultural research scientists, Mr. Polyansky covered this problem and others concerning developing wheat varieties suitable for northern climates, cattle breeding and raising, milk production and the use of chemical sprays for insect pests.

Summing up his impression, he said Canadian farmers, using the high degree of mechanization and automation techniques in Canadian industry, produce a great deal for a small work force. Russians could learn from this.

Chemical sprays had proved a problem in some parts of Russia, leading to contamination that interfered with the natural life cycle. Russian scientists were concentrating on other control measures for insect pests, such as sterilization to keep the number down.

MORE THAN 300 DOGS, in all sizes, shapes and colors, turned out this weekend for the Kelowna dog show, sponsored by the Lions Club. Above, the conformation judges examine the appearance of some of the entrants.

High Priced Dogs Don't Mind Fuss

By SUZANNE ZWARUN

Call them dog days if you insist but, please not aloud—at least not when several thousand dollars worth of meat on the paw are within hearing.

Around the City Park this weekend you could have lost a piece of cuff, or maybe an article, by being disrespectful about the high priced crew of four-legged delegates attending the canine convention.

The more than 300 entrants are understandably touchy about their bow-wow pow-wow. No wonder. In this crowd, you don't even know the name of the game unless you've got a four-decker pedigree and a price tag running into four figures.

MANY ENTRIES

Kelowna's 6th annual pooch palaver was officially called The Kelowna and District Kennel Club All Breed Championship Dog Shows and Licensed Obedience Trials (unbenched). Sponsored by the Kelowna Lions Club it attracted entries from all over the Pacific Northwest. With pinchers and poms, basenjis and borzois, salukis and samoyeds, keeshondens and kuvasz, there were 66 models in the show this year. But the styling doesn't change much with the years.

They came low slung or arched like taut bowstrings, lean and long-legged, or bow-legged and dumpy.

The original Cinderella have envied the smooth complexion of Cinderella the greyhound. But some breeds could only be rejected from Beatlemania (only her handler knows for sure which way is up).

The dogs represented some 220,000 purebreds in Canada and 8,000,000 pedigree pooches in the U.S. And there were some pretty special representatives in this show.

From Fresno, Calif., on the last leg of a six-day circuit which took her to Vernon and Penticton before coming to Kelowna, was seven-year-old Russell's Priceless Platter. Call her Gigi, if you're on more familiar terms.

A white standard poodle, Gigi became a tri-continental champion Saturday. This means she has competed with dogs all over Canada, the U.S. and Mexico in the past six years and has racked up the necessary points, 10 in Canada, 15 in the U.S. and three certificates in Mexico, to be declared a winner under three flags.

COVER GIRL

That combination of honors has put Gigi on the cover of Star Weekly magazine, made her the only such standard poodle at the Kelowna show, and possibly the only white standard group poodle with the honor on the U.S. west coast.

Her owner, Mrs. Margaret McBurnie, turned down an offer of $2,500 for Gigi last year.

Gigi's pedigree goes back 16 generations, but her kennel mate, Guard's Canadiana of Gus Ted, is no family tree light-weight either. She's a brown standard poodle with "a pedigree that never stops". Only a year old, she hasn't chalked up much on the show circuit yet. She won't likely be a loser though—her father is American and Mexican champion Biblot's Tall, Dark and Handsome, who is currently showing in the world series of the dog world, Cruft's show in London, England, after waiting out a six-month quarantine.

Mrs. McBurnie's poodles were handled by her daughter, Christine, but she estimated that 90 per cent of the dogs shown in the U.S. are handled by professionals.

The professional handlers in the Kelowna show could be distinguished by the same sort of lean, hard cool that professional rodeo circuit riders acquire.

Most start handling in their early teens and it takes years before they have the experience necessary for the top men.

U.S. rules for licensing handlers are "stringent", said one owner. As well as training and experience, handlers must have adequate financial backing and professional kenneling facilities.

WORTHWHILE JOB

The financial rewards can make the job worthwhile. Top U.S. handlers earn some $30,000 a year and "a good many handlers" earn between $7,500 and $10,000 a year, Jim Hall, a Renton, Wash., professional said.

Handlers are free to travel with the dogs, they understand them—often better than the owners do, Mr. Hall said. He has been on the circuit for 10 years. And a good handler knows how to disguise a dog's faults—the way to trim hair so that a too-long body is less evident, for example.

Show biz for dogs has only indirect rewards. Trophies, but little money, are available in the ring. The promise of boosted stud fees or puppy revenue keeps many exhibitors in the game.

Show dogs don't breed indolently—without a solid show record, a lady can't even get a nod from a top stud.

NOT CONCERNED

The dogs appeared to be the least concerned by all the fuss. Besides the "changes in water" which upsets some stomachs, they appear to thrive on the travel and excitement.

Poodles stood patiently while bows were tied in their hair, a scotch terrier closed his eyes while his handler sprayed hair spray at his eyebrows, pedicures and manicures and shampoos were standard treatment and, everywhere, handlers brushed fur furiously while the dogs stood quietly. They should be accustomed to it—for some breeds, such as poodles, an hour-a-day beauty care is standard, whether they're on the circuit or lying in front of the home hearth.

Lying on the hearth, that is, if any owner would dare to allow a $4,000 ball of fur that close to a fire.

A miniature poodle from Vancouver emerged as top dog of the two-day show.

English Champion Tophill Orsino, owned by Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Osborne, won best of breed, best of group, then went on to take best of show both Saturday and Sunday.

The Lions Club trophy for highest average score in novice A class in three trials minimum was won by Vixen's Tynes Pennella, a miniature poodle, owned by Pat Perry, Vernon.

Nine of the 14 trophies won by members of the Okanagan Obedience Classes were won by Miss Berry's poodle. The obedience classes had 13 dogs entered in the show.

The high scoring dog in obedience trials Saturday was Urray Golden Penny, a miniature pinner, owned by Kathryn J. Marshall, Opportunity, Wash.

Sunday the high scoring dog in trials was Tiaras Tailor Maid, a miniature poodle, owned by William and Myrth Logan, Van Nuys, Calif.

The Okanagan Valley Obedience Training Club trophy went, on Saturday, to Sunnyvies Kalamalka Prince, a pomeranian, owned by Edna Openshaw, Vernon. On Sunday the trophy was won by Mister Martini, a miniature poodle, owned by Delores L. Miller, Vernon.

Conformation judges for the show were George Kynoch, Vancouver, and W. H. Pym, Tulsa, Okla. Obedience judges were Ben Grant, Kelowna and L. D. Shattred, Vancouver.

Summer Is Fun In Clay For Some At Art School

Nine people are up to their elbows in clay today, the first day of the ceramic classes at the Kelowna and District Summer School of Art at the Art Centre on Richter St.

The classes, for adults, will continue from 9 a.m. to noon for the next six days.

Chemistry, the nature of clay and building by hand, were the topics covered at today's session, Zelko Kujundzic, director of the school, said today.

Mr. Kujundzic introduced the ceramic students to a type of hand-building called Raku. This kind of ceramic can be fired without a kiln, on an open fire or even a home barbecue.

PROJECT PERIODS

Afternoons during the session are devoted to project periods, when pupils practice what they learned in the morning classes.

The students are working seriously, Mr. Kujundzic said, but they are finding the work relaxing and enjoyable too.

The ceramic course will include methods of modelling and hand-building hollowing and slab, mostly at an intermediate level. Also included will be an introduction to wheel throwing, decorative techniques and the basic chemistry of glaze-making.

The opening of the Kelowna Summer School of Art will help both trained and untrained artists. As well as the ceramic classes, painting classes will be taught by Mr. Kujundzic, and his wife, Ann, and Mrs. R. E. Hare, of Kelowna, will teach the children's classes.

PAINTING SCHOOL

The children's school of painting also started today.

Mrs. Hare is conducting this session, from 10 a.m. to noon until July 15.

The purpose of the children's sessions is to introduce them to various forms of art, not only as a creative outlet and for enjoyment, but as an educational experience, Mr. Kujundzic said.

Ceramics for children start July 18 and a second painting class begins July 25.

At least 36 adults are expected to attend the summer school. Applications are coming from former students of Mr. Kujundzic and from art school pupils in Calgary, Vancouver and San Francisco.

Mr. Kujundzic is a graduate of the Royal College of Art in Budapest. He has directed summer schools of fine arts in Nelson and he was director of the Kootenay School of Art for four years.

Painting classes will begin after the ceramic class finishes.

Creative painting, class one, begins July 18. Creative painting, class two, begins July 25.

Poetry readings, open to the public, start July 16 and will continue each Saturday at 8 p.m.

Seven Men Face Court After Weekend Arrests

Seven men were arrested during the weekend and brought before Magistrate D. M. White today.

Allan James Abel of Westbank was sentenced to six months in jail when he pleaded guilty to a charge of assault causing bodily harm.

Police were called to the Westbank Indian Reserve at 1:50 p.m. Saturday where they found Allan's brother Carter lying unconscious and bleeding.

The prosecutor said investigation disclosed that the two had been drinking and Allan struck his brother, kicked him in the ribs and held his head under water until others intervened.

The man was unconscious for one and one-half hours and was taken to the hospital by ambulance.

George Eli, Westbank, was fined $250 or in default three months in jail on a charge of being an intoxicated in possession of liquor. On a second charge of being intoxicated on a reserve, he was fined $50 or 30 days, sentences to run consecutively. He pleaded guilty to both charges.

He and Dennis Swite, West-bank, were found by police in a car in a driveway on the reserve, where they had passed out, the prosecutor said. Swite was fined $50 on a charge of being intoxicated on a reserve. He pleaded guilty.

Charged with being intoxicated in a public place, Raymond Adrian and Mudeen Whitey, both of Williams Lake and Roy Peter Watson, no fixed abode, were all fined $35 each.

Frank Alvin Thomas Parham, Valleyview Rd., who said he was celebrating his wedding anniversary, was fined $250 when he pleaded guilty to an impaired driving charge. He was prohibited from driving for three months. He struck a lamp stand on Black Mountain Rd. at 8:25 p.m. Saturday.

Loren Eugene Tillotson, Gordon Rd., pleaded not guilty to a charge of having two glass mugs valued at less than $50 in his possession. He was remanded to Aug. 2.

In magistrate's court Saturday Dan Alexander of Westbank pleaded guilty to a charge of being intoxicated in a public place and was sentenced to one day in jail.

Case was dismissed Friday against John Giesbrecht, RR 4, charged with making an indecent telephone call with intent to annoy or alarm. He pleaded not guilty.

Police Dispose Of City 'Bomb'

An underwater explosive electric charge was disposed of by the Kelowna RCMP Saturday.

The "bomb" was found on the beach in the City Park at 11 a.m. by Zelko Kujundzic. Police said they think it was left from construction of the Okanagan Lake bridge.

RCMP said it was not too dangerous as the TNT was encased in cement and packed in a tar-like substance.

A warehouse at Richter St. and Gaston Ave. was entered during the night Friday. The culprit drove a truck through the garage doors. Entry was gained by crawling under the doors. No estimate of the vandalism was available.

Hank Pietersma, of Edmonton, told police at 6:30 a.m. Sunday, someone took $100 from his wallet while he was asleep in a tent in a back yard on Flinford Ave.

Kelowna RCMP received a request Saturday to check this area for an overdue aircraft. Police located the plane in the Vernon area where it had a damaged landing gear. There were no injuries.

District's Rainfall Cuts Fire Hazard

The large amount of rainfall in the Kelowna district kept the fire hazard moderate in the area.

Forest ranger H. C. Hewlett said today no new fires were reported.

Nine fires have broken out in the Kelowna district since May 1 and all have been extinguished. No new fires have been reported in the past two weeks.

A stubborn 900-acre fire near Terrace in the Prince Rupert forest district caused the most trouble to the B.C. forest protection division last week.

Winds handicapped the 200 men now fighting the huge blaze. Four water bombers and 10 bulldozers are being used in an effort to bring the blaze under control.

The fire hazard in the Prince Rupert area last week was reported increasing. The hazard for most of the week was from moderate to high.

Most other areas in the province, including the Kamloops forest district, reported a fire hazard from low to moderate. The Kelowna ranger district is in the Kamloops forest district.

A total of 64 new fires occurred during the week bringing the total to 99. A total of 58 were extinguished leaving 41 still burning.

Firefighting costs last week were $46,700 bringing this year's provincial total cost to $233,600. Costs during the same period a year ago were $539,100.

A disturbance which brought rain to Prince George Thursday was expected to move over the southern portion of the province and keep the fire hazard low in that area.

Clearing in most other areas has kept the hazard near moderate.

No Deadline Established For Registration Of Voters

The opening of registration centres in B.C. June 27 was for the purpose of reorganizing voters' lists after electoral changes made in the Angus Royal Commission on Redistribution.

"It is not necessarily an indication that a provincial election will be called shortly," the registrar of voters in the South Okanagan, R. H. Manson, said today.

Redistribution in this area was responsible for a change in ridings of about 1,700 former South Okanagan constituents.

Mr. Manson explained the list of provincial voters is a continuing one and registrations are received at any time.

A deadline could be set in the event a provincial election is called, he said, but this would make those registering after the deadline ineligible for that election only. Their names would still be entered on the voters' list.

The single time registration cards are not received is during the actual election.

Mr. Manson said registrations are continuing to pour into his office. He said Wednesday 1,879 cards had been received since the centres opened.

More than 16,000 voters are eligible in the South Okanagan riding.

Arthur Gray Rites Tuesday

Funeral services will be held Tuesday for Arthur William Gray, of 1896 Marshall St.

The former Oyanama orchardist died July 9 in the Kelowna General Hospital.

Rev. William Edington, of Oyanama, will officiate at the funeral service in Day's Chapel of Remembrance at 10:30 a.m. Burial will be in the Oyanama Cemetery.

Members of the Royal Canadian Legion, Oyanama branch, will act as pallbearers.

Mr. Gray was born in London, England, in 1890 and was educated there.

He came to Canada, to Winnipeg, in 1905. In 1920 he moved to Oyanama where he owned and operated an orchard.

When war broke out, he joined the Canadian Expeditionary Force, First Contingent, and went overseas in 1914. When he returned to Canada in 1918, he went to live in Winnipeg.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray were married in England in 1917.

In 1920 Mr. Gray returned to the Oyanama district and he operated an orchard there until his retirement to Kelowna in 1965.

Mr. Gray is survived by his wife Ethel, in Kelowna; one son, Bernard, in Oyanama; and one daughter Barbara (Mrs. D. L. Angus) in Kinnaird, B.C. A sister in England and eight grandchildren also survive.

There is still no indication when Mr. Collinson will be released from the Kelowna General Hospital.

HYDROPLANE PREPARATIONS

sons responsible for things getting out of hand or for any sign of violence.

Every possible precaution is being taken to protect the boat racers and their valuable hydroplanes.

Police and power squadron boats will be stationed on the perimeter of the two and one-half mile course. The hydroplane pit will be guarded 24 hours a day and no unauthorized people will be allowed to enter.

SWEEP DAILY

The course will be swept first thing each day. The 14 men in the control boats will see that boats passing outside the racing area do not make any wake.

Speed must be under three m.p.h. and buoys will mark the area where boats cannot travel.

Three of the boats on the lake will act as a fire patrol and four will be equipped for rescue work. The boats will have water pumps, extinguishers, metal basket-type stretchers which can be lowered into the water and fully-qualified first aid men, and doctors.

The 3,600 gallons of aviation gasoline, contained in 80 drums will have a fire watch particularly while each hydroplane is being fueled, fire chief Charles Pettman said.

Night watchmen will patrol the pit area. Aquatic grandstand and the former M.V. Lequime which will be used as a barge.

During the races some 16 firemen will be on duty and all days off and leaves have been cancelled for the Kelowna RCMP.

Police said licensed premises will close their doors when racing begins.

ing capacity is reached and more people will be allowed to enter only as others leave.

Dances scheduled in the East Kelowna and Okanagan Mission halls will be closely checked by police and they will keep a watch on the liquor situation generally.

Police will have at their disposal seven Kelowna RCMP cars equipped with radar, three unmarked cars, four outside cars from other detachments including the Kamloops provincial van and a motorcycle policeman from Burnaby and one from Hope.

Six Kelowna Army cadets are preparing today to attend the summer training camp at the Vernon army camp.

The Kelowna cadets are among 1,200 cadets expected to attend the six-week camp.

Starting Friday cadets from B.C. and three other Western provinces will start travelling by aircraft and bus to the Okanagan camp. They begin their training July 18.

The cadets, ranging in age from 14 to 18, receive training in auto mechanics, radio, first-aid, drill, band, and other military techniques. Interspersed with their military-type training are generous doses of recreational activities including swimming, boating, fishing, camping and baseball.

Following training, the cadets will hold a graduation parade Aug. 25 and then return home.

More Money Required For Vernon Band's Trip

Money is still needed by the Vernon Girls' Trumpet Band if it is to meet the $30,000 estimated cost of the trip to the Geneva Band Festival.

Donations are coming in slowly to the Kelowna Daily Courier but more help is needed.

The Swiss government invited the band to attend the festival. While in Europe it will perform in Italy, France, the Netherlands and Belgium.

The 38-member band and chaperones will leave Vernon Aug. 7 and will return Sept. 10. The band will perform in Kelowna Aug. 1 during Premier Bennett's Social Credit Party birthday celebration.

The trumpet band was formed 18 years ago by R. W. Hodgson who still acts as director. Members wear a gold satin pleated skirt, a brown tunic and a purple pillbox hat. The girls are in the 12 to 16 age group.

Mayor R. F. Parkinson has urged the public to lend its support to the Vernon Girls' Trumpet Band which will represent not just Vernon but the entire Valley on the trip. Donations may be sent to this newspaper.

Walrod Fund Totals $3,781 For Jr. College

The R. P. Walrod scholarship committee is turning over the fund to the Okanagan Regional College Council.

The money now in the fund, $3,781, and all future donations will fall under the authority of the college council. Alan Gilroy of the scholarship committee will present the cheque at 8:10 p.m. today at the college office.

The Walrod scholarship fund was instituted in the memory of R. P. Walrod, former general manager of Mission Hill Wines Ltd. and H.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., and an expert on the Okanagan fruit industry.

Mr. Walrod died suddenly Feb. 18.

Thunder . . .

The Okanagan weather forecaster sees some thunderstorms on today's horizon.

Skies should be mostly cloudy today with afternoon and evening showers and isolated thunderstorms. Tuesday should be sunny with a few cloudy periods.

Expected low tonight and high Tuesday at Penticton 50 and 78.

The high in Kelowna Sunday was 75 and the low was 49 with 0.5 inches of rain. A year ago the same date the high was 73 and the low was 52 with 0.1 inches of rain. Saturday's high was 87 and the low was 63. A year ago on the same date the high was 78 and the low was 56.

Woman Hurt In Accident

An Armstrong woman, Winifred Flindt, was taken to the Kelowna General Hospital shortly after 3 p.m. Sunday, with broken teeth.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Evelyn Jeannette Gordon, South Kelowna, which left Sayers Rd. and went into the orchard area where it was estimated at $150.

Two cars were involved in a collision at the City Park Saturday causing damage estimated at $100. Police said drivers were Jeanne Stenham, Calgary. There were no injuries.

Red Cross and Chest Link Hands For Drive

The announcement that the Kelowna branch of the Red Cross will merge its fund raising activities with the Community Chest organization is an important one in this area. The decision is one which certainly was not hurriedly reached. It has been discussed since the formation of the Community Chest organization about 1950.

It means the Red Cross will join a score of other organizations in their fund raising drive. It means that there will be one less major canvass for funds each year in this area. It means one organization and one organizational effort. For the volunteer canvassers, it means one instead of two canvasses a year.

The local Red Cross officials have in the past been somewhat reluctant to join with other groups. And not unnaturally. Over the years the Red Cross here has been extraordinarily successful in its fund drives. Its budget was generally considerably larger than budgets in other comparable towns and the local drive invariably went over the budget figure.

There were those who argued, perhaps with justification, that this record could not be maintained if the Red Cross were part of a larger group. On the other hand there were those who argued that the single canvass would save expense and labor and that the people of Kelowna would simply increase their Community Chest donation by the amount they had previously given separately to the Red Cross.

If the latter are correct, then the combined Red Cross-Community Chest budget should be achieved without too much difficulty. The danger, of course, is that some people will not recognize the addition of the Red Cross to the group and will just repeat their previous Community Chest gift, pocketing that which they formerly gave to the Red Cross.

It is unlikely that this will happen in many cases. The people of this area have a record of being generous and warm-hearted. They have shown this in many ways and in a thousand canvasses for money. It is unlikely that now they will change their normal characteristics.

When the Chest objective is announced in the fall, the figure will probably come as something of a shock to many people. It will not do so, however, if it is remembered that the Red Cross annually collected 11 or 12 thousand dollars here and this amount has been added to the Chest objective.

Still, if the objective is to be reached, the Chest and Red Cross officials should appreciate that careful and intensive organization in all spheres must be planned and carried through. Good planning, live team captains, enthusiastic canvassers, good publicity and all the other facets of a successful fund drive, each in its own way is necessary. A good organization and the reasons for the drive well explained to the public will ensure a successful campaign.

Toward Anarchy

The Canadian Labor Congress has announced it is calling a conference in Ottawa in September on injunctions and the threat of compulsory arbitration.

In recent days, two prominent British Columbia labor leaders have made statements that envisage defiance of the law as one course the unions will have to follow in their fight against the use of court injunctions.

Mr. Paddy Neale, secretary of the Vancouver and District Labor Council, is quoted as saying at a B.C. Federation of Labor conference, "If labor leaders and workers are forced by law and injunctions into going into jail, let's go. But let's make an issue of it and keep the problem in the public eye."

And further: "The law is an ass. We must try to have it changed, but if we can't then we may have to ignore it."

Mr. Jack Moore, regional president of the International Woodworkers of America, had much the same thing to say: that employers would use the province's legislation to the utmost and more and more unionists could expect to end up facing jail terms.

These two and others of the same mind—for example the 10 officials of the International Longshoremen's Union who chose jail terms rather than fines for contempt of court after failing to obey a court order—have every right to dislike the law as it stands and to say so. They have every right to try to enlist massive public support for their cause, by all legal means. But they can scarcely count on the sympathy or respect of thoughtful British Columbians if, because the law does not suit them, they set out to defy it.

If indeed they regard as valuable the publicity that would derive from more unionists going to jail, they would do well to contemplate deeply the words of Chief Justice G. A. Gale of Ontario in his judgment in a recent contempt case, for here is the core of what responsible citizens of a democracy will believe.

If trade unions feel that present legislation is unfair or unrealistic, said Chief Justice Gale, "... then they should seek proper channels for bringing about a change. In this respect, they have no higher right than any citizen of this country, and no one should be permitted to express his displeasure at the state of the law by deliberately flouting it. To follow any other rule would be to tread the road toward anarchy and chaos."

The Vancouver Lions get down to serious training at Kelowna. Coach Clem Crowe says the team is a week ahead in their training schedule. Old Sol has been beaming from a cloudless sky, and with 80 degree and higher temperatures this is helping one overweight player, Bob Fleck, 250 lb. tackle and guard, from Green Bay Packers and Syracuse U., to lose excess poundage.

The Kelowna Boxla players took undisputed hold on first place in the Okanagan Intermediate League by downing the hard fighting Vernon squad at City Park 17-9. A drizzle made the footing bad, 16 penalties were handed out. Curran and O'Brien scored three goals each to lead the Kelowna attack.

MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S NIGHTMARE

The Day When Lodges March Looms In Northern Ireland

BELFAST (AP) — Northern Ireland's capital is a city where, in 1966, men are still killed for religion.

It is a city of tension and fear, where it may mean insult or injury to walk down one street in the symbolic green of Roman Catholic Irish nationalism—or to walk down another in the orange of Protestant loyalty to Britain.

Three persons have been slain in the last few weeks—one man shot, another stabbed, a woman burned by a gasoline bomb. Their only known offence—being Roman Catholics.

Five men await trial for the deaths.

Belfast is the city where, while people were cheering

Queen Elizabeth on a visit, 29-year-old Terrence Loughran, father of six, had to leave his home on Protestant Penrith Street because he's a Roman Catholic.

They had scrawled anti-Catholic slogans across his windows and he got the message.

And during the Queen's tour, a bottle and a chunk of concrete were thrown at her limousine.

BOMB THREATEN
"There's nothing to do but move out," said Loughran. "The next time it might be a brick or a bomb through the window. We never did anybody any harm. I'm very broad-minded about religion..."

Tuesday, July 12, is a date to reckon with. That was the day William of Orange defeated Catholic King James II and insured a Protestant monarchy after the Battle of the Boyne in 1690.

That is the date Protestant Irishmen will never let the world forget. Monday the bonfires will blaze in town and countryside. Triumphant arches span the streets, decked out in orange and topped by the horse-back figure of King Billie the victor.

On July 12 the Orange Lodges—originally formed to fight any signs of Catholic encroachment on Protestant rights—will march through 12 centres in Northern Ireland. In Belfast alone 20,000, including lodges from Canada and Scotland, will turn out with orange sashes, drawn swords, rolling drums and waving banners.

The Roman Catholic Minority (about one-third of the population of 1,250,000) has not taken reprisals for its dead. The Irish Republican Army—banned here as it is in the Irish Republic in the south—is strangely quiet. Some observers of the Belfast scene smell trouble in the air.

Prime Minister Terence O'Neill, a moderate Protestant heading a Unionist-Conservative government, has a emergency powers for use against Irish nationalists. He is using them to fight the Protestant extremists too.

At the heart of the storm stands Rev. Ian Paisley, whom some blame for a resurgence of Protestant bigotry just at a time when things were looking better.

Paisley, for 20 years as Belfast preacher, denies advocating force and says he has no connection with the underground extremist Ulster Volunteer Force which O'Neill has banned.

'BURN HIM'

But when he attacked O'Neill for having conciliatory talks with Premier Sean Lemass of the Irish republic, the crowd yelled: "Burn O'Neill. Burn Him. Hal-lujah."

Besides calling O'Neill a traitor for dealing with Ulster's Catholic neighbors to the south, Paisley hates the Pope (he calls him Old Red Socks), the ecumenical movement (he says it is proposing a Rome takeover) and the archbishop of Canterbury ("another traitor").

Says Gerry Fitt, a Catholic and the only republican Laborite among Northern Ireland's 12 members of the London Parliament, says:

"It sounds ridiculous, but there are parts of my constituency where I dare not go even in broad daylight."

Some members of the powerful Orange Order, which pulls many strings in the Northern Ireland Parliament and city hall, are showing a tendency to split into moderate and extremists blocs.

Sir Albert Kennedy, head of Ulster's Royal Constabulary, thinks the underground extremists are armed and, unless controlled, ready for a religious war.

Old-style Orangemen find it hard to accept new ideas of cross-border cooperation after 40 years of a partitioned Ireland with virtually no contact between Belfast and Dublin.

Another cause of trouble is economic and social. As conditions improve and Northern Ireland becomes steadily more affluent, "poor white" Protestants see their more fortunate neighbors move away and the growing Roman Catholic population move in from other parts of the city to take their place. Then the pressure secret or open may start to intimidate the intruders and force them out.

OTTAWA REPORT

No Room At Top For Backbenchers

By PATRICK NICHOLSON

At a recent stormy caucus of the Liberal parliamentary group, the rivals for the not-yet-vacant leadership and their supporters were roundly castigated by a back-bench MP for sowing disunity within their party ranks. "There is no vacancy at the top, and we should not act as if there is," said Bryce Mackasey, MP for Verdun, Quebec, in his forthright Irish manner which has so much endeared him to his fellow-Irishman "Mike" Pearson.

Since I first referred to that significant caucus, the new unity and the truce in campaigning urged by the outspoken Bryce Mackasey has borne interesting fruit. The ranks near the top have been closed.

Finance Minister Mitch Sharp, certainly one of the candidates for the throne when there is a vacancy at the top, has voiced the new togetherness theme in the House of Commons. Transport Minister Jack Pickersgill, who in eight years has saddled his leader with a plethora of political "bum steers," climbed the public platform to praise that patient leader and to decry talk of Liberal disunity as Tory propaganda. And Health Minister Allan MacEachen, who is steadily advancing his stature as a leading Liberal tactician and thinking man, paid a more reasonably sincere tribute to his longtime political leader and friend.

This Cabinet chorus stems from the deservedly famous "halt the dissension" harangue which Bryce Mackasey delivered in the secrecy of the Liberal caucus.

GRIT BLAME TORIES

Speaking in Newfoundland, Pickersgill said: "The moment the Tories decide their leaders are failures, they start to butcher them." He cited Bennett, Manion, Bracken and Drew as victims of this butchery. "Since 1963, the process has been slower, though the intention has been there," he said. "To accomplish this purpose, they now have a new propaganda line. This new Tory line is that the only way to save Parliament and restore good government in Canada is to get rid of the leaders of both historic parties."

Then Mitch Sharp made his brisk contribution in the House: "Within the Liberal party there is greater confidence today in the Prime Minister's leadership than there has ever been at any time since he took office. I for one, and I know I speak for all members of this party, hope that the Prime Minister remains as leader of this party as long as he feels he has the strength and the patience to continue. There will never be any revolt in this party designed to unseat him."

That is an impressive crop of togetherness to flower from Bryce Mackasey's spirited criticism of Mike's Murderers.

Even the greatest of Liberal older statesmen, Senator Tom Crerar, has voiced this "Tory" line. But Pickersgill insisted that Pearson is really the victim of Tory propaganda rather than of Liberal discontent. "The Pearson Years have been turbulent years," he admitted. "We have had many parliamentary crises. But L. B. Pearson is a leader who is cool, courageous and constructive." And he concluded by exhorting his audience: "Let us give our full support to a man whose achievements in three years have made him a great and constructive leader of Canada."

If that is the best his friends can do, poor Mike doesn't need any enemies.

SCOTTISH SINCERITY

Addressing a Liberal meeting in Listowel, Nova Scotia, Allan MacEachen was more persuasively eloquent. There are some Canadians, even in the Liberal party, he said, who see an easy and simple solution to the problems confronting Canada: "Change the party leader, and all will be well." But, he continued, President Johnson, General de Gaulle and Prime Minister Harold Wilson are not weak leaders; "yet their countries are beset by deep and seemingly insoluble problems." This is a time for careful constructive policies in Canada, for encouraging a national consensus but not for dictating it from the top. "With these qualities, Prime Minister Pearson is and has been the right man in the right place at the right time," said Allan MacEachen.

Then Mitch Sharp made his brisk contribution in the House: "Within the Liberal party there is greater confidence today in the Prime Minister's leadership than there has ever been at any time since he took office. I for one, and I know I speak for all members of this party, hope that the Prime Minister remains as leader of this party as long as he feels he has the strength and the patience to continue. There will never be any revolt in this party designed to unseat him."

That is an impressive crop of togetherness to flower from Bryce Mackasey's spirited criticism of Mike's Murderers.

A fierce forest fire broke out in the Porcupine mining area of Ontario 55 years ago today—in 1911, it took 18 lives, burned more than 864 square miles, and destroyed property worth $3,000,000. Great activity by prospectors, because of gold discoveries, combined with a dry period when many small land-clearing fires were burning, provided the setting for disastrous results when high winds blew up July 11. These winds lasted several days, joining small fires into a single front 20 miles wide. It took more than a week to bring the blaze under control.

CANADA'S STORY

MacDonald Saw West Late In His Career

By BOB BOWMAN

Although Sir John A. Macdonald was the chief architect in the building of Canada, he had never been west of Ontario until 1886, nine years after Confederation. CPR transcontinental service began on June 28, 1886 and Sir John and Lady Macdonald left Ottawa for Victoria on July 11.

It must have been an amazing experience for him to ride through picturesque but rugged country north of Lake Superior to Port Arthur and Port William. The CPR newly won bankrupt building that part of the line, and Sir John had to battle the members of his party to get enough money to keep the railway going.

He stopped in Winnipeg for three days, and visited his son, Hugh who became premier of Manitoba later. Then he spent a weekend at Regina with Governor Dewdney, and chatted with Blackfoot chief Crowfoot at Gleichen. Crowfoot was in mourning for his nephew Poundmaker, a victim of a prison sentence after the Riel rebellion.

Going through the Rockies, Sir John and Lady Macdonald rode on the cowcatcher of the engine, and saw Kicking Horse Pass from that vantage point. Port Moody, then the Pacific coast terminus of the railway, was reached on July 24. Vancouver had been burned to the ground on June 13, so Sir John went directly to Victoria in the steamer Princess Louise. Although he had never seen Victoria, he had been its member of parliament in 1878 when he was beaten in Kingston.

He had a job on his hands to keep British Columbia in Confederation. If the building of the railway had not begun by May 1879, British Columbia had threatened to withdraw from the union and begin collecting custom and excise duties.

CHATTING WHILE THEIR MEN WORK

Mrs. Harold Wilson, wife of the British prime minister, talked at 10 Downing St. in London, Friday, with Mrs. Georges Pompidou, (left) wife of the French premier, while their husbands were discussing Britain's projected entry into the European common market next door at No. 10 Downing St., the Wilson residence.

Ross-Gorek Wedding Held In St. Paul's United Church

Baskets of red roses and white daisies graced the altar of St. Paul's United Church on June 25 for the pretty double-ring ceremony uniting in marriage, Donna Lynn Gorek, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theo Gorek of Oyama, and Ronald Brian Ross, son of Mrs. M. Ross and the late Merville Ross of Vernon. Reverend H. H. Gough officiated at the ceremony and rose buds and tulle marked the pews for the guests.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was radiant in a floor length gown of Nylon and net over taffeta, featuring a rounded neckline and long filypoint sleeves. The fitted bodice was accented with lace, and matching lace appliques were scattered over the dress and formed a solid border of lace at the hemline which flowed gracefully into a train at back. Her headpiece consisted of three white rosettes with sprigs of sequins holding in place her six layer, poufed veil. The groom's gift of a gold locket was worn by the bride. For something old and borrowed, she wore a diamond ring belonging to her mother and for something blue a garter. She carried a cascade of red roses with trailing rose buds and white streamers.

The matron of honor was Mrs. David Bowler of Vancouver, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaid was Miss Dorothy Norman of Westbank. Both attendants wore identical floor-length dresses of pink taffeta styled with empire waistlines and lace panels attached to the back shoulders. Their accessories were of same shade, including the pink rosette head-dresses encircled with veiling, and they wore single strands of cultured pearls and carried cascade bouquets of white carnations.

Acting as best man was Alan Hemming of Vernon, and the ushers were David Ross, brother of the groom, and Jim Gruno, both of Vernon.

Mrs. Ian Sisset, the soloist sang "The Lord's Prayer" and the "Wedding Prayer" accompanied by the organist Mrs. Jean Gibson.

At the reception which followed in the Kelowna Aquatic the mother of the bride received wearing a turquoise linen dress with a lace collar and matching jacket. Her accessories were white, and she wore a corsage of white gardenias. The groom's mother, who assisted her in receiving the guests, chose a blue sheath dress with a matching jacket accented with white accessories and also wore a corsage of white gardenias.

The bride's table was centered with three tiered wedding cake surrounded with tulle and rosebuds and topped with white flowers and two doves holding wedding bands in their beaks. Vases of red roses completed the table decoration.

Charles Funnell of Vancouver uncle of the bride, said Grace before the meal. Charles Gallagher of Oyama was master of ceremonies, and proposed the toast of praise to the bride which was ably answered by the groom, Alan Hemming, who gave the toast to the bride's attendants, also read telegrams of congratulations from Vancouver, Nanaimo and Vernon, and during the reception Miss Glenda Janz and Master Grant Janz entertained the guests with appropriate accordion music.

For her honeymoon to the United States the bride chose a white linen sheath dress with a matching full-length coat of linen lace. She wore white accessories and a corsage of white sweetheart roses. Before leaving she presented her bridal bouquet to her grandmother Mrs. R. Rice of Winfield.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ross of Vancouver, Mr. and Mrs. L. Bowler, Mr. and Mrs. C. Funnell, Mr. and Mrs. H. Barber all from Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. J. Sterling of Enderby, and a number of friends from Vernon, Oyama, Winfield and Lumby.

The newlyweds will reside in Vernon.

There were 13 tables played in one section of Mitchell movement with the following result:

NORTH - SOUTH
First, Harold Deag and Don Phelps; second, the between Mrs. W. J. Eastabrook with W. Hughes-Games; and Mrs. Mitch Hodge with Mr. Ray Crosby; fourth, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hyde.

EAST - WEST
First, Bert Berry and Bill Heppner; second, Dr. Will Evans and Jack Garraway; third, Mrs. A. Forsyth and Bob Stewart; fourth, Mrs. Jack Archibald and Guy Greenwood.

The next session will be held at the Capri Motor Hotel on Tuesday, July 12 at 7:30 p.m. (not on Wednesday as usual). This will be Guest Night and guests will not pay table fees. Members are urged to bring as many guests as possible as the club is anxious to show its hospitality. Visitors are welcome and those needing partners should call Mrs. R. H. Bowman.

POLICE ARRESTED GRANNY STRIPPER

HADERSLEV, Denmark (Reuters)—Police raided a lonely farm-house nightclub Friday night and arrested the star attraction—a 66-year-old stripper grandmother.

Twenty-five guests were watching the show in the unlicensed club 12 miles from Copenhagen when the police pounced.

They arrested granny, who strips to supplement her old-age pension, on a charge of a breach of the Danish licensing laws.

The guests and hostesses were bundled into police cars and taken into town, but later released.

WESTBANK ITEMS

Coming from Calgary for the weekend were Miss Sandi Twiname, who stayed with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clay McGaw; Miss Sharon Drought, who was a guest at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Drought; Brian Drought, of LeCombe, also was a weekend guest at his parents' home.

Mrs. Vera Sayers was a Vancouver guest during the holiday weekend, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton McGaw.

Another coast visitor to Westbank for the holiday was Mrs. Hazel Drought, who stayed with her mother, Mrs. L. A. Hewlett.

Mr. and Mrs. George Yeulett have taken up residence in Westbank following their return home from their honeymoon.

Here for several days last week was Mrs. Marjorie Fell, of Vancouver, who is the guest of Mrs. David Gellatly.

Nine Months Tour Of Europe Enjoyed By Kelowna Travellers

Byron Johnston returned from a hitch-hiked along the Italian Riviera then on to Switzerland and Luxembourg. In Germany he was accompanied most of the way by Robert Wilson of Kelowna who returned home several weeks ago.

After arriving at Le Havre from Montreal the two young men hitch-hiked through France, Spain and Portugal, then from Gibraltar they took a ferry to North Africa where they met three Canadians, from Regina, Switzerland, where he was re-joined by Mr. Wilson.

Travelling through the seven and a half mile Mt. Blanc tunnel over the highest peak of the Alps was an unforgettable experience, said Mr. Johnston, who travelled on through France and Switzerland, where he was re-joined by Mr. Wilson.

Visiting Germany for the second time, they visited the University of Heidelberg, travelling by boat up the Rhine, and after visiting Dusseldorf and Amsterdam in Holland crossed the channel from Ostend to England, where they spent several weeks in London and toured through England and Scotland before Mr. Johnston saw Mr. Wilson off for home and returned to Kelowna.

At Spa in Belgium he saw the Grand Prix car races and also visited Brussels, before returning to London for a few more weeks. Confronted then with the seamen's strike at South Hampton, where all the ships were tied up, he was forced to change his plans and fly back to Montreal by BOAC hitch-hiking home from there to the Okanagan.

Next came Istanbul and other points in Turkey then on to Greece and from there they travelled by boat to Brindisi, Italy, where they were joined by a couple of travellers from Australia. They visited Venice

AROUND TOWN

The Lively Arts Group wound up their winter season with a pot luck supper at the lakeshore home of Judge and Mrs. Stephen Denroche recently. Gifts were presented to Fran Christian who is leaving the group to be married and travel overseas with her husband to teach in England on an exchange teachership and to Mrs. Roy Shoemack who is leaving Canada to live in New Zealand. Both members will be greatly missed by the group. The group resumes its meetings in September and are looking forward to a busy season next year.

Mrs. Earl Conn and her son Terry from Coquitlam, who have been visiting Mrs. Conn's brother-in-law and sister Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Price in East Kelowna are spending this week in Kelowna as the guests of Mrs. Conn's mother Mrs. William Sallis and Mr. Sallis.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Weeks left on the weekend on a three months holiday cruise. They will travel by freighter through the Panama Canal to South Africa, then up the East Coast of Africa through the Red Sea and the Mediterranean to Lisbon. Mr. and Mrs. Weeks plan to return home in the early fall by way of a visit to New York. During their absence their home will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Peck from Edmonton.

Calgary visitors here to attend the Ogoogo Golf Tourney have been Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. King, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Lough, and Mr. and Mrs. G. W. McArthur, who stayed on over the weekend at the Mountain Shadows Country Club lodge.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Doran, Stillingfleet Road, have been their daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Colin McLean of Vancouver. Mr. and Mrs. McLean have just returned from a world tour and five months spent in Australia visiting Mr. McLean's family.

ANN LANDERS

Effects Of Marijuana Smoking Are Obvious

Dear Ann Landers: I have been married to Lee (made-up name) for nine years. We have four children and a nice home in the suburbs. Lee is a good husband and father and we have a happy marriage.

Tonight, by accident, I ran across some cigaret paper for rolling your own. It was tucked in the back of Lee's desk drawer along with an envelope that had been taped and stapled. I opened the envelope and found some dried particles of what appeared to be a plant. It is dark brown in color and has some tiny seeds mixed in. Can this be marijuana?

I have not told my husband that I found the envelope and I don't know if I should. Please tell me what you know about marijuana and what I ought to do about it.—FRIGHTENED.

Dear Frightened: Obviously, I could not attempt to analyze any substance without first seeing it, and in this instance, even if I saw it I wouldn't be of much help. I don't know what marijuana looks like.

If you take the contents of the envelope to an organic chemist for analysis and if it turns out to be marijuana, prepare yourself for questioning by legal authorities. Possession of marijuana is against the law.

It seems unlikely to me that your husband could be on pot and you would not know it. This weed produces exhilaration which you would surely recognize as unusual behaviour. Discuss the problem with your family doctor and accept his counsel.

Dear Ann Landers: Who is right? My husband's sister has two children who are in grammar school. Her son had a tenth birthday several days ago and my husband and I sent the youngster a very nice gift.

Yesterday we received a handwritten letter to "My dear Uncle and Aunt" thanking us for the "beautiful present."

I showed the letter to my husband and he said he thought it was "fine" that the kid took the time and trouble to write a thank you letter. I said it was the very least the boy could do. I also said I thought his mother should have looked at the letter before he sent it, and corrected his spelling and instructed him to write it over. Do you agree with me? — OLD WORLD THINKER.

Dear Thinker: No, I do not agree with you. The child's note was an expression of appreciation. He thanked you in his own words—in his own way. For a 10-year-old, "Uncle and Aunt" isn't too bad. You should see the letters I get from high school kids complaining about "kerfey" and not enough freedom.

A new VW is cheaper at twice the price.

It's that for an outrageous claim? A new VW at around $1978 (depending on accessories) costs less than a 5-year-old Something Else at $900. We know you wouldn't believe it. So we proved it. Let's say you plan to keep your next car 5 years (and drive a total of 75,000 miles). Here's how it might work out.*

	New Volkswagen	Used Something Else
Price	$1,978	$900
Fin. @ 4 1/2% p.a.	900 (27 mps)	1,775 (18 mps)
Ins. @ $22.50	112 (40,000 mi./yr)	324 (20,000 mi./yr)
Oil @ 70¢ p.q.	48.75 (25 qts. 5000 mi.)	53.20 (4 qts. 4000 mi.)
Auto Ins. @ 12¢ (auto. contrib. only)	0	12.00 (4 years - 4000 mi. only)
Cost for 5 years	$2,363.75	$2,176.20

So you're at least $180 ahead if you buy the new VW. (We didn't even count the extra $20 it saves on lower insurance and registration fees in many provinces.)

If you buy the new VW, you won't have to worry about why the first owner sold it. (And you won't have to pay for the expensive ailments that can hit an old Something Else.)

Now then, we don't have a crystal ball, but today's market is an interesting clue to the future.

After 5 years, the used car will probably be a 10-year-old candidate for the junk heap. But the VW will probably just be reaching its prime.

(Check the classified ads and you'll find 5-year-old VWs selling for $500 to $800, depending on the shape they're in.)

But you can do much better than that. Don't sell your VW at all.

(Think of the money you'll save by driving it for another 5 years.)

An Arnold Palmer type charge, a two-hole playoff and a 62-foot putt was all that was needed to make the 1966 Ogopogo Open Golf Tournament one of the best ever.

Taking first things first Bob Kidd and Bert Ticehurst duelled for two holes before Ticehurst won the 1966 tourney.

Kelowna Golf and Country Club is turning out to be a good luck course for Vancouverite Ticehurst. In 1954 Bert won the B.C. Amateur and this year he shot his first hole in one of his career and won the Ogopogo in his first attempt. So one could say Bert is batting 1.000.

The final round Saturday saw the lead switch back and forth on almost every hole. Gary Puder, of Vancouver, charged on the first nine of the last round. Gary picked up six strokes on Kidd to push him to a one-stroke lead at the end of the front nine. Ticehurst was one stroke behind, with Kidd and Russell pulling up the rear.

The seventeenth hole proved to be the downfall of Puder. A shanked shot caused Gary to settle for a bogey four on the hole which gave Ticehurst and Kidd the room they needed to create a playoff. In the final analysis the eighteenth hole was the highlight of the entire tourney.

Bert Ticehurst, with two shots was at the back edge of the green 62 feet from the hole. Bert calmly lined up his shot and rammed the ball into the hole to give him a temporary lead, with a 215 total.

Bob Kidd, also on the green with two shots, two putted to put his score at 215. Puder needed to knock in a chip shot from below the green to win the tourney. Gary missed his chip shot and then two putted to fall one stroke behind Kidd and Ticehurst.

In the playoff both Kidd and Ticehurst parred the first hole in regulation par 5's. On the par 3, 200 yard second hole Ticehurst drove to the green and two putted to end the tourney and give Ticehurst the victory. Johnny Russell in finishing fourth, played as he put it, "unsteady golf throughout the entire tournament". But Russell's play was good enough to give him fourth place. Russell finished with a 75, Saturday to put his three-round total at 219.

Finishing in fifth spot, four strokes back of Russell was Len Morgan of North Surrey. A scratch handicap golfer, Morgan had rounds of 75-73-75 for a 223 total. Bill McDonald of Cowichan ended up sixth with a three-round score of 225.

George Barnes and Bill McGhee tied for the leading Kelowna entry. Barnes shot a 76 Saturday to end up at 230. McGhee put together rounds of 77-77 to end up at 230.

At the trophy presentation Saturday night, Bert Ticehurst received the Ogopogo championship jacket and trophy for low gross score. Bob Kidd was awarded the DuMaurier Trophy as the low professional in the tourney.

Other award winners were: Wayne McDonald the John Labatt Trophy for having the low net score of 207. Bill McGhee of Kelowna the Hewey-Whittall Trophy for having the best score shot by a man from the Interior and Jim Greenlay of Kelowna the Willow Inn Hotel Trophy for having the low net score for golfers with handicaps ranging from 9-12.

Kelowna Shut Out For First Time

Kelowna Labatts lost a golden opportunity to move 1½ games ahead of Vernon, Saturday night at Elks Stadium when they dropped a 4-0 decision to Penticton Molsons in OMBL action at Elks Stadium.

Kelowna had everything needed to win except the ability to get on base. The Kelowna bats were awesomely quiet during the all-important tilt. Penticton pitcher Jim Terbasket held the Labs to a mere five hits and yielded only three walks, which for Terbasket is pretty good.

Penticton didn't do much better but two of the eight Penticton hits were home runs which hurt Kelowna pitcher Skip Ivie.

Skip Ivie appears to be the find of the year for Labatt skipper Henry Tostenson. Skip pitched confidently throughout the entire game skillfully mixing his curve, slider and fast ball to his best advantage. Kelowna gave Ivie lots of help in the field only committing two errors. In past games this year Kelowna's erratic fielding has cost them victory in more than one ball game.

Lee Day put Penticton ahead in the second inning when he jumped on one of Ivie's pitches for a home run over the left field wall. The Peach City nine made the score 2-0 in the sixth when Bruno Ceccone doubled and came home on a single by Al Hooker. The second Penticton home run of the night, by Herb Tillberg, in the seventh, ran the score to 3-0. Dan Coates rounded out the scoring in the eighth inning when he scampered across the plate after reaching first on a base on balls and coming home on a triple by Bruno Ceccone.

Kelowna's next game will be Tuesday night when the Labs journey to Kamloops for a tilt with the Lelands. Kamloops is currently entrenched on top of the league and could prove to be a troublesome foe for the Kelowna team, as they have been all year long.

The next home tilt for the Labs is Saturday night when North Kamloops comes to make up a postponed game from early in the season.

Game time Saturday will be 8:30 p.m. The Labs originally scheduled an exhibition game with Yakima Indians for July 16 but previous commitments kept Yakima from coming. The game has been re-scheduled for early in August.

Mounties Drop Doubleheader Fall 8½ Games Behind Leader

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Indianapolis Indians exploded for six runs in the 10th inning of the first game, then scored another five in the third inning of the second game to wrap up a Pacific Coast Baseball League doubleheader Sunday night against Tacoma, 9-6 and 8-4.

In other league play, Spokane swept a doubleheader from Portland, 4-3 and 5-0; Denver routed Oklahoma City in a doubleheader, 19-2 and 8-7; San Diego and Hawaii split a twin bill, San Diego taking the opener 3-2 and dropping the nightcap by the same score; Tulsa beat Vancouver 6-3 and Seattle edged Phoenix 5-4.

Tacoma played Indianapolis to a 3-3 tie through the first nine innings but lost out in the 10th when the Indians tallied six times. A two-run homer by pitcher Ron Willis was the big blow.

In the highlight, the Cubs pulled ahead 4-2 but fell behind in the third when the Indians collected five runs.

The visiting Oklahoma City 89ers went through the first six innings of the opener at Denver without a run while the Bears racked up 19, batting around in each of the first three innings. The 89ers managed two points in the seventh to avoid a shut-out.

In the second tussle, the teams were tied 9-9 after nine innings before the Bears gained the advantage in the 10th.

Seattle edged Phoenix as Marty Pattin gained his sixth straight pitching victory.

Spokane rallied for four runs in the fifth and sixth innings to edge Portland and then jumped to a first-inning four-run lead in the nightcap. The sweep gave Spokane a 4-1 margin in a five-game series.

Tulsa and Vancouver struggled to a 3-3 tie in the first six

Yanks Falling, Falling, Falling After Senators Take Two Games

By RON RAPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer

George Smith, Boston Red Sox second baseman, hit a grand-slam home run in the bottom of the 10th inning to give last-place Boston a 10-6 win over Chicago, a sweep of a double-header and its fifth straight victory.

Boston, which has won nine of its last 10 games, is within 1½ games of escaping the league's cellar. The New York Yankees, who dropped a pair to Washington Senators, are making like a potential last-place club.

The Yanks lost to the Senators 3-2 and 9-2, while Minnesota Twins beat Detroit Tigers 4-2. California Angels shut out Baltimore Orioles 4-0, and Kansas City Athletics knocked off Cleveland Indians twice 4-1 and 5-3.

Smith, who lined a 3-1 pitch off Chicago reliever Juno Pizarro for his seventh homer this season, said, "I was looking for the fast ball, figuring it was the only thing he could throw me in such a situation. It was inside, just above the belt and I knew it was gone as soon as I connected. It sure felt good."

Yankee manager Ralph Houk, who hoped to have the team at 500 by the all-star break, watched the Yanks fall 12 with their five-run eighth, Roberto Clemente's single driving in the go-ahead run. After all the runs had scored, Friend relieved Bob Shaw. With a runner on third and two strikes on the batter, ElRoy Face, the Pirates' pitcher tried the squeeze, but Face missed the ball for a strike out and the runner was caught off third.

Milt Pappas pitched out of numerous jams in winning for Cincinnati. The Reds built a 2-0 lead on run-scoring singles by Vada Pinson and Tony Perez before the Giants narrowed it on Ozzie Virgil's homer in the ninth.

Denny Lemaster pitched a five-hitter and Frank Bolling and Woody Woodward singled home runs in the fifth inning for Atlanta's victory over the Dodgers.

Ernie Banks was the big man in the Cubs' triumph over Philadelphia, driving in five runs with three hits. Southpaw Dick Ellsworth picked up his fifth victory against 12 defeats, with Jim Bunning taking the loss.

Rusty Staub hit a pair of homers, the second one with a man on in Houston's three-run eighth, as the Astros beat the Cardinals in 104-degree weather at St. Louis.

Games behind that mark and 20½ games behind the league-leading Orioles. Homers by Ed Brinkman and Bob Savarinne gave Washington the victory margin in the first game, while blasts by Willie Kirkland and Ed Brinkman powered the Senators in the second game.

GETS 21ST HOMER

Two-run homers by Harmon Killebrew and Don Mincher got the Twins past second-place Detroit despite Al Kaline's fourth round-tripper of the series. It was Kaline's 21st homer of the year, tying Baltimore's Frank Robinson for the league lead.

George Brunet set down the high-flying Orioles on four hits and kept Baltimore from increasing its eight-game lead over Detroit. Brunet, now 9-3, won his fifth game in a row, while Steve Barber, 10-3, took his first loss after eight straight victories.

Kansas City climbed into sixth place with its sweep. Rookie Jim Nash threw a three-hitter in the first game for his second triumph since being called up from the minors. Joe Nieseck hit an inside-the-park home run. In the second game, a single by Larry Stahl drove in the go-ahead run and a double by winning pitcher Jack Aker drove in an insurance score.

WANTED:

a bearded, baldheaded, tattooed, mustachioed, swashbuckling symbol of a Roaring Twenties beer.

Why? Because our own Rainier brewmaster just doesn't look the part. A fine brewmaster. In fact a master-craftsman, like his father and his grandfather before him. But not exactly swashbuckling. No virile beard. No dashing eye patch. And he has hair. Who'd believe he could brew a great beer like Rainier: robust, full of character and old-fashioned flavour, brimming with the big beer taste that first made Rainier famous back in Kamloops in the Roaring Twenties.

So we need a man to match our beer: rugged, distinctive, old-fashioned. The Great Rainier Brewmaster Hunt is on!

Western Glamor Turned On For Touring Soviet Leader

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)—The rider got the buffalo galloping, jumped it into the back of a pickup truck, hurried across the cab roof and wound up sitting astride the hood, hat in hand.

There couldn't have been a more fitting climax to a day full of western glamor for Dmitry Polyansky, visiting Soviet deputy premier. He roared with laughter at the stunt.

Mr. Polyansky wound up a busy Friday with almost two hours at a rodeo at Fort MacLeod, 25 miles west of Lethbridge. There were about 2,000 area residents at the competition and, when the deputy premier's presence was announced, they gave him a big round of applause.

Mr. Polyansky and members of his party also watched bull dogging, calf roping, bronco riding and a chuckwagon race with four-pony teams. That put a unique western end to a day that had the same kind of start—an outdoor breakfast at Medicine Hat.

Members of the party started that meal with a glass of "cactus juice," which turned out to be orange juice with vodka. They went on to bacon, eggs, rolls and coffee.

The only thing missing was flapjacks; the gas-fired cooking range wouldn't get hot enough to handle them.

Then the deputy premier headed for Lethbridge, 100 miles southwest. His object was a look at the grain, cattle and vegetable farming technique of southern Alberta.

At a grain and vegetable farm near Taber Mr. Polyansky saw an insulated storage bin that holds 20,000 tons of potatoes and looked over the irrigation system used on the farm. It consists of long stretches of sprinkler pipe mounted on big aluminum wheels. It rolls 60 feet to a new section after spraying in one place.

Next stop was the federal agricultural research station at Lethbridge. Here he was told of experiments in cross-breeding cattle and of steps for plant tests and disease control.

He asked the chief entomologist, N. D. Holmes, about the book The Silent Spring by U.S. author Rachel Carson, outlining dangers of indiscriminate use of insecticides and pesticides on natural life.

Mr. Holmes said he felt the book drew an exaggerated picture. But scientists wanted to get away from using insecticides because of the danger of contaminating the soil.

Opening lead—two of hearts.

One of the most interesting persons in bridge history was the late and great Sidney Lenz, who died several years ago. His name became well known to the public when he participated in the famous Lenz-Culbertson match of 1931, but for many years before this he had been known in bridge circles as the leading authority of the game.

Lenz authored many books, mostly on auction bridge, his style of writing being such that it combined interesting material with good prose. Here is an excerpt from one of his books on auction bridge, but remember that in those days you got credit for making a game or slam whether you had bid it or not.

"West had the deal and bid a spade which North doubled and East redoubled. South called two hearts. West two spades, and North went to three hearts. East doubled and North then re-doubled.

"Aside from North's redouble the bidding appears to be along conventional lines. Even the knave of hearts would go a long way towards making the North-South hands good for nine tricks, conceding a club, a diamond and two hearts to the enemy.

"West opened the singleton trump on the reasoning that North's redouble must be based on the ability to trump spades and every trump extracted from his hand would save a trick. South played the nine of hearts from dummy so that the eight might become an entry for the club finesse. East played four rounds of the suit, South being thrown in the lead, as he had continued unblocking in the dummy.

"When South finessed the ten of clubs, East took the king and West gathered in six tricks in spades. On the eleventh trick South had the unhappiness of deciding whether it was best to discard the ace of clubs or the queen of diamonds. The perfect squeeze position was invulnerable and South made only one trick."

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Planetary influences for Tuesday indicate the possibility of conflict in personal relationships. Be especially careful in dealings with superiors, elders, anyone in a position of authority. The same aspects could also bring disappointment in romantic or social communications.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that, where job and financial matters are concerned, your pattern will be a somewhat varied one during the next 12 months. Despite some small gains promised during the first two weeks of August, it will be imperative that you be conservative in monetary affairs until September 15th (and especially during the first two weeks of that month). Immediately after that date, however, you will enter an excellent 2-month cycle which will bring many opportunities for increasing assets.

Other good periods on the fiscal front will occur in early December, next February and June but, here again it's important to emphasize the necessity of caution in intervening months, or you could offset gains.

Your chart indicates that you should have a generally good year where occupational interests are concerned, with splendid chances of advancement promised in late September, early December, next January, March and May. Creative workers should find the entire months of September, December, January and June outstanding for accomplishment.

In your personal life you have some happy prospects in store. Both romance and social life will be highlighted between now and September 15th; also between November 15th and December 31st, next April, May and June. These will be excellent periods in which to make new friendships, meet interesting members of the opposite sex and form contacts with persons of influence who could eventually prove invaluable in a material way. Stars don't promise much in the way of travel (except for short trips) for the balance of 1966, but January, May and June of 1967 will be highly propitious months.

A child born on this day will be noted for loyalty, conservatism and musical ability.

TRY AND STOP ME

By Bennett Corf

ATTORNEY A. J. Priest recalls the long-past day when the Payette Valley Railroad, now part of the Union Pacific, was run independently on a shoestring by one Hyrum E. Dunn.

The day when the Payette Valley's one and only locomotive broke down and was dead-headed into Salt Lake City for repairs—if possible, Dunn sent this telegram to the foreman of the Salt Lake yards: "Please return whistle on my broken-down engine. The Troy Steam Laundry from whom I borrowed it wants it back."

Aubrey Mennen once asked a cheerful old Hindu pundit, "In this world of illusion, is there anything you believe in as real?" "Certainly," was the answer. "Three things: God, human folly, and laughter, and since the first two pass our comprehension, we must do what we can with the third."

OVERHEARD:

"My home town is so dead that the all-night diner closes at three in the afternoon."—Jack Gayle.

"Some of these modern young couples now get married about an hour after they've met for the first time. Instead of the wedding march, the band plays 'Stranger in Paradise.'"—Sam Lowenson.

Disappointed old party sprawled on a park bench: "If they'd had electric blankets and sliced bread when I was a young feller, I'd never have got married."

U.S. 'Lagging' In Peaceful H-Power Use

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) - A U.S. Atomic Energy Commission staff report contends the United States is falling behind the Soviet Union and the rest of the world in the quest to harness peacefully the power of the hydrogen bomb, it was learned today.

The report, prepared by AEC scientists, terms the situation "alarming" and urges the federal government to boost research spending by 15 per cent annually over the next five years.

The scientists say that since 1962 the United States' investment of money and manpower in the development of a thermonuclear fusion reactor has dropped to one-fifth from one-half of the total world output.

This type of research, the scientists say, could provide mankind with a new source of energy that can last for some 20,000,000,000 years. They warn that if the world's power needs multiply by a thousandfold in the next century—as some reports predict—present fuel sources would be burned out within decades.

WILL FORWARD REPORT

It was learned the report will be forwarded to the joint congressional atomic energy committee.

The report says the Soviet Union now is carrying on 37 per cent of the world's peaceful thermonuclear research, compared with 20 per cent for the United States and 43 per cent among the rest of the world.

The U.S. is spending $21,500,000 on peaceful thermonuclear studies this year, compared with $7,000,000,000 in the space race. In 1960 the AEC budgeted $30,000,000 for the program and the figures have been dropping ever since.

BEAVERS CROSS SEA

REGINA (CP) - Saskatchewan sent the French city of Mulhouse two beavers and two prairie dogs during World Friendship fortnight. Mulhouse also wanted two timber wolves for the zoo but it was too early in the season to capture wolf pups, so they'll be sent along later.

Lots Of Criticism Greet's Sharp's Bank Act Plans

By GORDON GRANT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

There were few surprises in the proposed revisions to the Bank Act introduced by Finance Minister Sharp but there was plenty of criticism, a little praise and some uncertainty.

As expected, the finance minister proposed changes in the controversial six-per-cent ceiling allowed on bank loans.

Banks will be allowed to charge seven-per-cent interest until Jan. 1, 1967, if the proposals become law—probably in the fall—then they will be allowed to charge a maximum of 1 1/2 per cent above the average yield on short-term Canada bonds.

Eventually, the ceiling will be removed, Mr. Sharp said. He didn't seem to please anyone with these proposals.

Bankers say it is unfortunate the ceiling was not eliminated; trust company spokesmen say they are glad to see the six-per-cent limit go, but that the removal of a maximum is another question.

Allowing the banks to make conventional mortgage loans earned Mr. Sharp applause from all sides.

S. T. Paton, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, said he was pleased with this provision but he hoped it wouldn't be circumscribed by onerous provisions.

Jean-Yves Gelas, president of the National House Builders' Association, said the proposed legislation could be "of great assistance to the residential housing industry in establishing another badly needed source of mortgage funds."

"We have been asking for action by the government on this matter for some time now, and I am pleased finally to see that action is being taken. If the legislation is passed in the fall this picture brightens."

D. L. Clayton, president of Coronation Credit, said that allowing banks into the mortgage field is "an excellent idea."

However, he doesn't think the banks will move in too heavily since they haven't the funds.

INSURANCE SCHEME
Mr. Sharp proposed a scheme of insurance on deposits which the established banks weren't too happy about.

Said Mr. Paton: "It would appear to be a measure that would force the chartered banks to contribute to a fund to improve the security of deposits of competing institutions."

But banker Sinclair Stevens, a director of the Bank of Western Canada which was granted a charter Thursday, said he thinks the idea is "terrific."

"Deposit insurance is very much needed. Without it it is difficult to get competition for deposits between trust and loan companies and chartered banks. The larger institutions are able to sell security—the deposit insurance will remove doubts from depositors' minds."

With all the proposed changes, however, the images of banks are not expected to change.

One spokesman said: "My assessment is that we shouldn't go into riskier areas than we're in now."

Tighter U.S. Economy Reins Put Pressure On Consumer

NEW YORK (AP) - Tighter reins on the U.S. economy are putting additional pressure on the consumer.

On one hand, financial institutions are fighting for his savings-bank commercial banks, savings and loan associations, and mutual savings banks all are offering him higher interest rates.

But if he wants to borrow money, he will discover it will cost him more than it did last month.

And in between, some of the thrift institutions caught in the squeeze say they may shift more money into states where mortgage rates are higher.

A mutual savings bank spokesman in New York said his bank would consider increasing its investments in higher-yielding mortgages, such as those available in California.

Savings bank spokesmen indicate growing concern about the one per cent spread between the dividend rate they are paying and the mortgage rate.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board said this week the growth of the savings and loan industry during the first five months this year was the smallest since 1951 because of increased competition.

The board said new loans were down 18 per cent nationally from 1965 during May. Associations in the Cincinnati and Des Moines districts, however, increased their lendings 2 and 13 per cent respectively.

The standard dividend rate at major mutual savings banks has reached five per cent. Some savings and loan associations in California are paying 5 1/2 and 5 3/4 per cent—even six per cent for special three-year bonus accounts. Commercial banks are allowed to go up to 5 1/2 per cent on individual time deposits.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board gave up its attempt to limit the dividend rates that savings and loan associations pay savers, saying it was unenforceable.

Some California associations that increased dividend rates said they didn't expect to attract substantial new savings because of the decline in customers' savings and the competition from commercial banks. They said they made the increases only to meet the competition and to hold onto the savings accounts they already had.

Other business developments during the week:
Automobile sales the first six months this year were 3.6 per cent lower than 1965. Automobile production this month is scheduled to fall 37 per cent below a year ago.

Volkswagen ordered about 500,000 of its 1966 model cars, 197,000 of them in the United States, recalled for the inspection of possible defects.

Steel production dropped 2.8 per cent to 2,570,000 tons. Heavy use of air conditioners during the heat wave sent electricity power output soaring to a record 23,747,000,000 kilowatt hours—14.7 per cent more than a year ago.

Stern Measures Required To Solve U.K. Cash Problems

LONDON (AP) - There was a growing feeling in British financial circles today that the bank discount rate, which governs Britain's interest rates, will have to be raised soon, possibly next Thursday.

The bank rate has been six per cent since June 3 last year. The prices of British government funds declined sharply on the London Stock Exchange Friday, with some untold issues reaching all-time lows.

Strong pressure on interest rates also was evident in London's money market, where the rate of "fine" bills rose 3-32 per cent to 6 1/8 per cent, exceeding bank rate for the first time.

The rate of interest on treasury bills, which the market buys by tender, also rose again. It now is at its highest level since the bank rate was cut to six per cent from seven per cent.

Sterling had another unsettled day. Forward rates came under selling pressure from overseas and fell sharply against the United States dollar. Confidence in the currency remained at a low ebb.

The pound has taken a hammering this week and has pushed the whole time under what used to be accepted as the support rate of 2.79 U.S. dollars. The Bank of England was reported to have spent millions supporting sterling and its forward commitments were said to be mounting steadily.

FUNDS NOT RETURNING

Foreign-owned funds that always leave London at mid-year are not returning, and French and other continental bankers are reported talking freely of devaluation.

Another sign of uncertainty Friday was a rise in the price of gold on the London bullion market. Gold shares also were in demand, but other equities fell.

All the signs were that Britain is in for another credit squeeze. Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan was reported wanting to wait until the fall to see whether a stronger squeeze is needed, but the pressure to act now is probably strong enough to be irresistible, say some experts.

Unless Callaghan drastically squeezes consumption, reduces imports and cuts government spending, these experts say, Britain can expect another big drain on its gold reserves this year.

This means they would have fallen by something over £200,000,000 ($600,000,000) in the five months since February. This time of the year is usually a good one for foreign earnings, but this year he trend has been reversed. The recent seamen's strike did not help.

In just over two weeks, Callaghan must face the finance ministers of the 10 rich countries who bank-roll Britain. He is due to describe to them the progress being made towards solvency.

Experts are saying it is almost inconceivable that he can face his fellow finance ministers without having taken further, stronger action to cure Britain's economic ills.

Uranium Interest Grows While Bank Stocks Fade

By LARRY DWORKIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Uranium captured the imagination of investors on Canada's stock markets this week while banks faded despite proposed sweeping revisions of the Bank Act.

Analysts attribute current interest in uranium to a number of factors:

1. Bright prospects for the use of uranium in nuclear power reactors;

2. Expected increases in the price of the ore because United States reserves are not sufficient for its uranium needs;

3. Thermal nuclear power is growing in importance in meeting electrical power requirements.

At Toronto, Denison jumped 6 to 60 after reaching a high of 61. Roman Corp., whose chief asset is Denison shares, climbed 3 1/2 to 15. It touched a high of 15 1/4. Rio Algom added 1 1/4 at 27 1/4 after reaching a high of 27 1/2 and Preston 1 1/2 to a high of 15 1/2.

Banks turned sour following Finance Minister Sharp's proposed changes to the Bank Act expected to run into heavy opposition in Parliament. Some observers say it may take upwards of a year before the revisions are passed.

Highlights of the Bank Act revision include:

1. Six-per-cent ceiling on interest rates of bank loans is to be raised and removed when credit conditions become easier. The formula pegs the new ceiling at 1 1/2 percentage points above the average market yield on short-term government bonds.

2. Banks will be allowed to make mortgage loans in expectation that increased competition will help small borrowers.

Wednesday, bank issues showed good strength following introduction of Mr. Sharp's proposals. They tumbled Thursday and Friday due to uncertainty about the passage of revision.

Imperial - Commerce paced the decline, falling 3/4 to 63. Royal was down 3/4 to 73 1/2 and Nova Scotia 1/4 to 69 1/2. Montreal and Toronto-Dominion were unchanged at 59 and 62 1/2.

P.Q. Hospitals Face Strike

MONTREAL (CP) - Quebec hospitals have threatened to go to the courts to block a threatened strike by some 32,000 non-professional workers in 139 hospitals across the province.

The workers, members of the National Federation of Services (CNTU), were rumored to be ready to walk off their jobs at midnight Friday. The rumour was denied by union officials and did not take place.

The employees have notified Labor Minister Maurice Bellemare they will strike July 14 unless salary negotiations are successful.

Paul-Emile Olivier, head of the labor relations committee handling talks for the management, said Friday the hospitals are able to face any emergency that arises and have made preparations in the event of a walkout.

However, authorities in several Montreal area hospitals were reported Friday to be asking relatives to remove patients from the hospitals in expectation of a strike.

Meanwhile, union and management continued contract talks.

The hospital employees have been trying for more than two years to sign their first province-wide agreement with the hospitals.

Union spokesmen said the hospitals offered pay increases ranging from $2.10 to $3.30 a week. The union is demanding $8.

The spokesmen were unable to give the figure for present basic wages on grounds of regional variations and the wide range of job classifications.

Sixteen Teams To Fight For Cup

LONDON (Reuters) — England and Brazil are the teams favored to reach the final of the 16-nation World Cup soccer tournament, which opens here today.

The Brazilians, led by their great inside left, Pele, are natural choices to finish on top, having won the last two series in 1958 and 1962. No country has ever won the world soccer crown three times in a row but if Brazil makes it here, it will get permanent possession of the solid gold Jules Rimet trophy, insured for $90,000.

The trophy is named after a former president of the International Football Federation, controlling body of world soccer.

London bookmakers have made the Brazilians 2-to-1 favorites to win the cup, with the English second at 4-to-1.

England, which did not start competing in the series until 1950, has never advanced beyond the quarter-finals of the event. But this year, playing on familiar grounds and before their own rabid fans, the English are at last rated a chance to regain international soccer status.

Playing on home grounds has proved to be a major advantage in the past. Uruguay won when it was host to the inaugural competition in 1930 and the Italians won the next one on home grounds in 1934. Brazil was host to the tournament in 1950 and finished second, as did Sweden when it staged the series in 1958.

Actually, since the cup competition began in 1930, only four teams have won the world title. Uruguay, Italy and Brazil have each won it twice and West Germany once. The series was suspended during the Second World War.

England opens the 32-game series tonight against Uruguay at London's Wembley Stadium before an expected crowd of 100,000, including the Queen and Prince Philip.

It is the only game being played today. The rest of the teams swing into action Tuesday.

Who Else But National League Favored To Win All-Star Game

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The embarrassed American League winner of only one of the last nine All-Star baseball games, is ready to go all out Tuesday against the favored National League's impressive array.

The National League have been taking blows for winning both the World Series and the All-Star game in each of the last three years. Overcoming a 12-4 edge in the All-Star series once completely dominated by the American League, Willie Mays and company have taken the lead 18-17-1.

Sam Mele, the Minnesota skipper who will boss the American League, sounded the word before he left home.

"I'll use my eight starters all the way if it will help us win," said Mele. "I'm going to win this one. We'll play to win."

Walter Alston of Los Angeles Dodgers can be counted on to give his sluggers a similar message.

In the old days it was common for most of the pitchers to work the Sunday previous to the game. That no longer is the case.

FIVE PLAYED SUNDAY

Five of the 16 pitchers were used Sunday but the only starters were Steve Barber of Baltimore on the American side and Jim Bunning of Philadelphia on the National side. Pete Richert of Washington, Claude Raymond of Houston and Phil Regan of the Los Angeles Dodgers were used in relief.

Stampeders Down Eskies In First Game Of The Year

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders overpowered Edmonton Eskimos 14-7 in the first Western Football Conference exhibition game of the season.

Stampeders, who amassed 277 yards in total offense to Edmonton's 90 yards, led 2-1 after the first quarter, 9-1 after the second and 12-1 after the third.

Calgary fullback Lovell Coleman scored a second-quarter touchdown. Larry Robinson, leading scorer in the WFC last year, converted Coleman's touchdown and in the third quarter kicked a 47-yard field goal. Calgary picked up a safety touch in the first quarter and a single in the final stanza.

Eskimo veteran Tommy Joe Coffey booted two field goals in the fourth quarter, one 40 yards and one 35. Edmonton also earned a single on a kick by Coffey in the first quarter.

Calgary quarterbacks Eagle Day and former Toronto Argonaut Pete Liske combined to complete 12 of 26 passes for 161 yards. Bill Redell and Randy Kenbow of Eskimos, both veterans, completed eight of 16 passes for 55 yards.

Stampeders ground out 116 yards rushing to Eskimos' 35.

Soviet Athletes Quit In Protest

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced today its track and field and basketball teams will not play against the U.S. this year in protest of the United States' war in Viet Nam, the news agency Tass reported.

Tass said the two Soviet teams have refused to participate in the meets because of the war.

An American basketball team was in training in the U.S. for a trip to the Soviet Union to compete against Russians.

Non-Communist observers saw the teams' decisions as part of the over-all Soviet Communist leadership's policy on Viet Nam rather than as the idea of the athletes.

Tass reported that the athletes met in the Moscow chess club today and passed a protest resolution.

It said: "Our hatred for the American military who are perpetrating atrocities in Viet Nam and our solidarity with the people of Viet Nam, who are fighting for their freedom and independence, does not permit us to take part in a match with sportsmen of a country from which this aggression comes."

The resolution also said that war is the sworn enemy of youth and sports, Tass said.

JACK NICKLAUS . . . close win

Nicklaus Adds British Open To Long List Of Victories

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP) — The man with the shortest swing left the longest memory after the British Open golf championship—even though he was a loser.

Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif., one of the most colorful characters in world golf, was short by three inches with a putt on the home green that would have tied the winning score of 282 shot by champion Jack Nicklaus, from Columbus, Ohio.

If that putt had gone in, Sanders and Nicklaus would have played off over 18 holes for the title Sunday—and anything could have happened.

But, speculation aside, Sanders caught the imagination of the knowledgeable Scottish golf fans in a way that no other competitor would rival.

His 71-70-72-283 was the most consistent golf shot on the 72-hole test over the intimidating Muirfield links. It wasn't only consistent; it was entertaining—and it gave the golf addicts something to talk about until the next British Open.

Sanders tied for second place in the British championship on 283 along with Dave Thomas of Wales.

In his final round he electrified the gallery at the ninth green by pitching into the hole from 85 yards with a wedge for an eagle 3.

The ball plumped onto the green and rolled 18 feet into the cup.
